Imagine having a book in your waiting room that could transform attitudes. Imagine teaching your younger patients about the value of loving and accepting those who are different.

That's what you'll have if you order Jessie's Blessing today. Jessie's Blessing is a delightful true story about acceptance, understanding and the differences that make all of us unique.

It's written by Judy Maus – a woman who knows what it's like to contend with a facial difference. She tells us how we can be pleasantly surprised when we look beyond surface appearances and see the real beauty within.

Jessie's Blessing is made available by Wrigley Canada and AboutFace – the international organization that's giving people with facial differences – especially children – the confidence to let their spirit, their heart, intelligence and inner beauty shine. This is the second installment of their educational programs. The first installment of AboutFace's educational program is Facing Differences – the videocassette and teaching guide package for grades 2 - 6.

NOW AVAILABLE ON CD-ROM!

Now kids can watch and listen as Jessie's Blessing is read to them on their computer. There are also 2 fun games based on the story they can play and 2 drawings they can print out for colouring.
